Scholarships Award for 2013—2014

Westmar became a member of the Iowa College Foundation in 1952 and received funds from the Iowa College Foundation while a member. Following the closing of Westmar, in cooperation with the Westmar University Alumni and Friends Association, ICF received over $700,000 from the Westmar Endowment, to establish an endowment for scholarships.

Since 2001, this program has been blessed to provide over $477,500 in scholarships. This year we will be awarding $37,000 to 34 recipients—students who will be attending an Iowa private college or institution.

This year two Presidential awards of $5,000 each are awarded to incoming college freshman, with a minimum GPA of 3.0. They are: Shannon Vander Berg, Sioux Center, grandchild of Eldon Vander Berg '60 and Emily Vondrak, Sioux City, grandchild of Kenneth '52 and Margaret Hayden Bonthuis '53.

Those winning $1,000 scholarships to any college grade level with a minimum GPA of 2.5 are: Jennifer Theisen, LeMars; Stephanie Begnoche, Remsen, grandchild of Harvey Begnoche '93-'97 staff; Christine Gallagher, Hornick, child of Dennis Gallagher '86; Kathryn Clausen, Hinton, child of Matthew Clausen '86; Gregory Probst, LeMars, grandchild of Gerald Probst '52; Kimberly DeBoer, Sioux Center, grandchild of John W. Vis '51; Jordan Sitzmann, LeMars, grandchild of Marlys Harr; Anne Bomgaars, Sheldon, grandchild of Dorothy Poppen Bomgaars '67; James Rylaarsdam, Sioux Center, grandchild of Dolores Rylaarsdam '62; Melissa Childress, Alford, child of Carol Jean Childress '80; Lindsey Vander Velde, Rock Valley, child of Todd Vander Velde '84; Emily Borger, Sioux Center, grandchild of Louise De Boer '47; Kayla Frey, Sergeant Bluffs, child of Michael Frey '87; Christopher Stevenson, Merrill, grandchild of Donald Stevenson '55; Cody Vander Berg, grandchild of Eldon Vander Berg '60; Channing Pick, Le Mars, child of Kaylyn Busch Pick '88; Micah Neary, Merrill, child of Jeffrey A. Receiving $500 scholarships were: Jordan Augustine, Urbandale, child of Crystal Hentges '88; Jenna Kitchenmaster, Lake Andes, grandchild, Arvin Kitchenmaster '63; Anne Epley Birtwistle, Mason City, grandchild of Donna Heim Epley '52; Isaiah Korver, Little Falls, grandchild of Muryl Jay Korver '60; Hillary Haden, LeMars; Shelby Puhl, LeMars; Matthew Albert, LeMars; McKenzie Hartman, LeMars; Erin Baldwin, Des Moines, child of Dawn Reams Baldwin & Brian Baldwin '83; Miles Kirts, Colorado Springs, grandchild of Marilyn Merchen Birmingham '64.

Our congratulations to all of these students. Many more applications were received but many were without grade transcripts by the deadline and could not be considered.

First consideration is given to students who are current residents of NW Iowa and have a Westmar connection. Other considerations are residents of LeMars, and students living outside of the northwest Iowa area but having connections with the former Westmar College. These are also awarded on the basis of a student's academic merit, commitment to community service and leadership qualities. Scholarships are for one year only, but may be renewed. Applicants at any college grade level are eligible, but must plan to attend one of ICF's member colleges as a full-time student.

A Focus on Alumni

Bob Franklin – '63 and Westmar Professor

A Man of Extremes (but with all the space filled in between)!

By Wayne Marty

Extremism is usually not used as a complimentary word but sometimes the experiences and contributions of one man are so varied that extreme may be an appropriate description. Dr. Bob Franklin, taught classes at Westmar for 19 years within at least four departments -Chemistry , Physics, Math, and Industrial Arts, but this is just a small sample of his now 78 years of diversity and variable experiences.

Born on a farm near Salina, KS in 1935, Bob experienced the hardships of a small 80 acre, Kansas, unirrigated, dry-land wheat farm. After eight years of attendance at the nearby one room school, with no one else in his class most years, he entered Assaria High School with the fear that he would not be able to keep up with the city kids so he worked and studied hard. As the year progressed he learned that his academic success did not provide him with popularity but, in contrast, his success produced verbal scorn from others. It would probably be called bullying today. Obviously, his intentional drift toward more care-less academic work did not eliminate the intelligence that he had already demonstrated and at the end of his freshman year his parents were informed that if Bob would turn in one neglected assignment he could still earn the outstanding freshman boy award. Bob turned in the paper.

While maturing on the farm with tractors and machinery, mechanics became one of his passions as he learned the mechanical skills of repair and welding from his father. When Bob was a junior in high school his father learned one day that the local machine shop was looking for a welder and told the shop owner, "My kid can weld." Bob went to the shop, stated his interest in the job, demonstrated his welding skill and was hired. Bob's "gear head" interest has been continually balanced and with his academic learning skills and this balance (or sometimes conflict) would play a role as his life continued to unfold.

Bob graduated from High School in 1953 and enrolled at Kansas State University with plans to pursue Electrical Engineering but his weak math background and his continuing fascination with the machine shop and other typical diversions of an active teenager made academic concentration difficult. At age 19, he acquired a junked motorcycle that he and his friends returned to working order, bowling with friends became a regular activity, and he continued with part time work at the machine shop. After two years he left Kansas State with less than a stellar record and returned full time to the machine shop work.

He responded to the opportunity to become a full time Fireman for the city of Salina, Kansas. During the Fire-house "waiting time" the men maintained and repaired equipment which enabled Bob to continue with his machine shop skills. While he was a fireman, he also joined the U.S. Army Reserve and left the Fire Dept. for 6 months for intensive basic training.

Bob maintained his involvement with the United Brethren church and at an outdoor social event offered his coat to a shivering young lady named Joan. Some months later Bob's mother told of a nice young lady that was attending their church, not knowing that it was the same Joan. A dating relationship began. Joan had been attending the local Junior college and had plans to transfer to Westmar College for her final two years. She convinced Bob to do likewise so both came to Westmar as juniors in the fall of 1960. They were married in June 1961 after their first year at Westmar and within five months thereafter Bob was activated from his reserve Army status to active duty for 9 months.

Joan graduated from Westmar in 1962 and then taught Elementary School in Cleghorn, IA, while Bob finished his senior college year and graduated Magna Cum laude in 1963. His academic enthusiasm was reignited under the encouragement of chemistry professor, Dr. Rebstock and others and it led to Bob's decision to continue with graduate School at Michigan State University. In 1967, after four years at Michigan State, and his PhD. Degree in Biochemistry, Bob, Joan and their new daughter, Sonya (now a mother herself and a PhD. biochemist for Monsanto in St. Louis), returned to Le Mars where Bob became one of the three PhD. Professors of Chemistry. During these academic years his "gear head" activities were largely put on hold but I can clearly remember that one of his college presentations for the required Natural Science Seminar was related to the valve action of certain motorcycle engines and Keith Schlender (W'61) and Michigan State class mate recalls that Bob was described as a "Jack of all Trades and MASTER OF ALL".

With the intense graduate study focus behind him, Bob now had more flexibility to practice the diversity that was always part of Bob's nature. He was now well prepared to help fill the various diverse roles as adjustments were needed in a small, financially limited, liberal arts college and he still found opportunities to practice and express his machinist interests. With a grant from the United Methodist Church in the summer of 1978, he employed several Westmar students to help build a wind driven refrigeration system that had the potential for use to preserve valuable foods and medications in developing countries without electricity. His Biochemistry degree was acquired with only one formal course in Biology but that does not mean that he had no knowledge or interest in Biology. He was the leader in honoring the long-time Westmar Biology professor, Dr. Danner, pushing for the establishment of the Danner arboretum on campus with the many labeled trees and shrubs. Bob could provide the scientific names for many trees on campus – the box-elder is Acer negundo; the burr oak is Quercus macrocarpa; etc. Bob was a regular and willing mechanical helper for neighbors and friends. If a part for an auto or motorcycle restoration project was needed Bob would say, “If you can’t find it we will make it. It was made for the first time by someone at some time.” His desire to learn extended to his determination to acquire his pilot’s license and his goal was achieved in 1973.

In 1969 Bob was the lead contractor for the building of their own home in Le Mars and in 1971 the Franklin home gained their second daughter, Marcia, (now with Masters Degrees in Astronomy and Library Science and a mother of twins). Someone described Bob as one who could turn a vacuum cleaner into a lawn mower. He did, in fact build a 4-wheel drive, articulated steering lawn mower for the acreage of their new home. Bob is a big man and can handle big machinery but can also do delicate work and has manufactured wedding rings and other small items. He left Westmar in 1986 during a period of Westmar financial challenges and began working for Chemical Sanitation Services. Working with this company that provided services and chemicals for commercial dishwashers and other industrial janitorial needs, Bob served well as a mechanic and chemist. In 1989, after a change in management at CSS, Bob left the company and trained as a Financial Advisor for IDS-American Express.

In 1995 Bob and Joan sold their house in Le Mars and moved to the small community of Meriden where Bob could be closer to his IDS office in Cherokee while he continued work but could also built his “retirement shop” in preparation for his full retirement in 2002. His work did not end. He fully restored a 1919 Traffic truck.

He built beds and cribs for his grandkids. He began to mass produce the Hand Cranks for the PET (Personal Energy Transportation) vehicles that are distributed to individuals who have lost use of their legs due to a variety of reasons including birth defects, accidents or left over war land mines in developing and war-torn countries. Bob has built miniature steam engine models and has also acquired a special interest in the reproduction of intricate antique clocks. He is currently in the process of building a reproduction of a Strutt epicyclic, 1829, clock. ALL parts except the spring and screws are built in Bob’s machine shop – every lever, every gear wheel, the face with numbers, etc. In addition it is often necessary to build special tools to make the special clock parts.

Bob was diagnosed with acute leukemia in November of 2012 but after treatment at Mayo Clinic he is again home, gaining strength, and appreciating remission status that, with appropriate rest periods, enables him to be back at work in his shop. His interesting antique clock project is nearing completion. Cards or emails from the many who have felt his influence would be welcome and can be mailed to Bob Franklin, 214 Falcon Court, P.O. Bos 126, Meriden, IA 51037 or email to paradox@netins.net.
